THE NEW YORK HERALD

Gentlemen:
We find that it will be unnecessary to continue our Help Wanted advertisement, as we have secured from a small nine line one column advertisement applications from representative sales managers from all sections of the East, and are selecting and placing satisfactory men secured directly from your paper as a medium.
We placed this advertisement in four prominent Sunday papers and found that the men secured through The Herald far surpassed those from the other three leading New York Dailies, both in character and ability.

AGAINST INSURANCE FUNDS FOR HOUSING

Stoddard Withdraws Proposed Amendment to Lockwood Measure.

MIGHT BE OBSTACLE

Superintendent Says Undermyer Claims It Will Jeopardize Bill.

ANNUAL REPORT READY

Increase in Risk Business a Feature—Will Go to the Legislature To-day.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD, New York, March 12.—Edward J. O'Brien, scientist, author and lecturer, makes the striking announcement that the mysterious fires on the Macdonald farm at Antigonish were not being set by a pyromaniacal ghost but that their origin was the result of wireless flashes between the two most powerful radio stations on the Atlantic coast—the direct line of which he declares lies the "ghost farm."

He adds he has ascertained that other mysterious fires lie along the direct line between these two stations. All the fires, he asserts, show they have an electrical source. These two powerful stations are located at West Point, Mass., and at Glace Bay. Mr. O'Brien continues:

"The Macdonalds will have to move their house out of the range of those powerful currents or that is liable to burn down, too, one of these nights when atmospheric conditions are just right, similar to those on the nights when the fires were set around the barn."

"Take the map, trace the line, apply your scientific knowledge of wireless operation, study the curious effects of electrical fires on ships and on land in cases where you know they were caused by wireless currents and you have the solution of the fires now being blamed on the ghost."

"Mary Ellen mischievously bragged the cows' tails and thought it was great fun. Whidden, the Halifax reporter, carried away with enthusiasm, probably believed the ghost eluded him, but the blow was a creature of imagination born of his tremendous concentration during the night he spent there."

"Dr. Prince of New York is about to give up his search. The story of the ghost is plain bunk. Your 'ghost' is wireless."

CALEDONIA MILLS, N. S., March 12.—The spook hunter, Dr. Walter Franklin Prince, was alone to-night in Alex McDonald's little home over on the hill, hoping the "thing" which caused Alex and his family to vacate would get friendly and suggest a game of "tag." He sent his companions out of the house to the homes of neighbors, but before going they were pledged to say nothing. There are some here who believe that Dr. Prince has already discovered the secret of the ghost, or perhaps made its acquaintance and arranged for a friendly little chat to-night.

Dan McGillivray, a neighbor, said to-night: "I reckon the doctor saw all he wanted to, else why all this rumormongering? We had one mystery up here all winter, now we've got two," he added. "First it was the ghost, now it's the ghost hunter."

RADIO FLASHES, NOT GHOST, SET ODD ANTIGONISH FIRES

'Spook Farm' Lies in Direct Line Between Powerful Wireless Stations and Sparks Did Mischief, As asserts E. J. O'Brien, Boston Scientist.

There are some here who believe that Dr. Prince has already discovered the secret of the ghost, or perhaps made its acquaintance and arranged for a friendly little chat to-night.

No report was made public of the happenings of last night in the McDonald home. It was generally believed, however, that if the ghost went for a walk it managed to evade Dr. Prince's cobweb system of jangling ghost alarms.

To-morrow morning Dr. Prince will be joined by members of his party at the spook hunt, and all will be on hand for Antigonish to entrain for Halifax. Dr. Prince will make a written report on his investigation.

LOCKWOOD ACCUSES GIBBS OF HOUSING BILL TRICKERY

say about what is to be reported out," Mr. Gibbs answered, and continued: "There were five votes present without counting Democratic Senator Walker, who was within call at the Capitol. I had two additional votes, which were enough to put the bills out. Anyway, I don't care anything about your bills. I am not against them; I don't care anything about them. I am not interested in them."

"Well," shouted Mr. Lockwood, "you came from a town (Buffalo) where our committee saved the people hundreds of thousands, even millions. I should think that would prompt you to take some interest."

"If you were so interested in your bills why didn't you stay in Albany and take care of them? All of your argument doesn't alter the fact that you didn't stay here."

Mr. Gibbs insisted that he had two witnesses that he told Mr. Lockwood there was to be a meeting of the committee, but that despite this Lockwood went away.

"I am not representing any insurance company the way you are," Mr. Gibbs shot out as he turned away. That ended the fray, but it did not change the situation regarding the bills.

Mr. Undermyer when asked to explain the scope and purpose of the State Trade Commission bill and why and from what sources comes the opposition, said:

"I am satisfied that if the bill were understood it would receive enthusiastic support, except from the criminal combinations that infest the country from end to end. They are quite right in opposing the bill. It is the most constructive and one of the most important."

LONDON, March 12.—A dispatch to the London Times from Milan says that Signor Giurati conferred with Gabriel d'Annunzio, Saturday. It is reported that Premier Facta has persuaded Giurati to decline the proffered Commissionership of Finance. Giurati's conversation with d'Annunzio, the Milan Secolo says, has been unfavorably commented on in Rome, where d'Annunzio's return is not desired.

GIRL, 14, FOUND LYING IN ALCOHOLIC STUPOR

Nothing About Her to Lead to Identification.

A girl, apparently about 14 years old, unidentified, was found last night on the steps of the Jewish Hospital in Brooklyn lying in a stupor from which she could not be roused. An orderly who was leaving the hospital picked her up and carried her inside, where physicians found she was suffering from alcoholism.

The police of the Grand avenue station were notified and they had the girl removed to the Kings County Hospital. She was nearly blacked in a black coat with a gray collar, black stockings and tan shoes. She had light hair and gray eyes. Twenty-eight cents was found in a purse she carried, but there was nothing about the child to identify her. Detective George Owens began an investigation for the purpose of establishing her identity and of finding where she obtained the liquor.

parts of the committee's program. Personally, I am opposed to trying to regulate human affairs by commission. There has been too much of that sort of regulation of late years. But this prejudice should not blind us to the necessity of a given proposal.

Briefly, the bill requires every trade association of which competitors are members to take out a license. In order to secure such a license it must establish to the satisfaction of the Superintendent of Banks that its purposes are lawful. The bill places every such association under the supervision of the Superintendent of Banks. Any corporation or officer of a corporation may then safely become a member. It will be the duty of the superintendent to see to it that the association thus licensed operates strictly within the law and that it is not made the medium for price fixing, restriction of output, division of territory between competitors or other illegal and unfair methods by which extortion is now practiced upon the public.

"A business man who joins or persists in remaining a member of an association that is not licensed will be guilty of a misdemeanor. Complaint is constantly being made by business men that the anti-trust laws are indefinite and that there is no place for them to ascertain what they can and cannot lawfully do. If this commission bill becomes a law they will know they can safely join a licensed association for legitimate cooperation between competitors and that they cannot be taken advantage of by a combination of business men that is not licensed."

Prior to the advent of the Lockwood Committee, if it had not been for the Federal Trade Commission there would have been no prosecutions by the Federal Government. The commission does the investigating and brings the proofs to the prosecutor.

"If the people can be made to understand the great relief this measure will furnish the demand for its enactment will be irresistible."

ROME DENIES GIURATI AS RULER IN FIUME

Mission of Fascist Deputy Apparently Is Vain.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD, Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD, New York, Herald Bureau, Rome, March 12.

The decision of the Italian Government not to recognize as head of the Fiume Government the Fascist Deputy Signor Giurati, who arrived in Rome to-day to confer with Carlo Schanzer, Foreign Minister, indicates a desire on the part of the Government to find a peaceful solution to the Fiume dilemma. In Fiume (Giurati) is opposed by the Socialists, Zanella's followers and many local Nationalists.

FAILS TO FIND GHOSTS TO SERVE A WARRANT

Policeman's Vigil in Jersey House Proves Fruitless.

Sergeant John J. Reilly of the Elizabeth, N. J., Police Department watched for ghosts in the home of William Delfino Meyers at 26 West Scott place, Elizabeth, from midnight Saturday until 6 o'clock yesterday morning, but nothing happened. He had no scientific instruments, but he did have a blackcat and an automatic, and felt amply prepared to cope with any ghost that got to snooping around.

Mrs. Meyers got a glimpse several days ago of a white shrouded figure that moved with stately step through a hallway, and asked Police Judge Otto to issue a warrant for it. The Judge said he would if he could get somebody to catch it, and Sergeant Reilly volunteered. The police think it was some one playing pranks.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT INQUIRY IS ORDERED

Parents and Officials Act on Charges in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, March 12.—A committee of five was empowered to investigate the charges of Victor J. Miller, President of the Board of Police Commissioners, that an immoral comedy had been given at the St. Louis High School here among the student body, in a meeting of parents and officials of that institution and civic organizations this afternoon.

A resolution presented to the assembly provides that five persons shall hear the evidence Mr. Miller asserted he would give to a parents' committee only. Charles Culliff, president of the Parents' Alliance of the high school, said he would prepare at once for the hearing with Miller, who did not attend the meeting.

Gov. Hyde, who arrived here late last night from Jefferson City, was invited to the meeting by school authorities, but remained at his hotel.

ASBURY TIDE REVEALS $800 DIAMOND RING

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD

ASBURY PARK, March 12.—High tides cutting out the loess upper sand on the Asbury Park beach to-day disclosed scores of coins ranging from pennies to half dollars, a diamond solitaire ring with a stone weighing more than two carats, a gold signet ring, half of a gold bracelet and other valuables. The diamond ring was found by Lester White, aged 17, of 1404 Third avenue, washed against a pile supporting the Fourth avenue pavilion. This was within fifty yards of the spot where New York visitors and a party of friends sifted sand all of one night last summer, after the loss of a ring said by its owner to have been worth $1,200.

White's ring was said to be worth at least $500. George McGill found a gold signet ring with the initials "L. M." It had a safety spring designed to hold it to the owner's finger. Another early comber found a heavy gold bracelet with the date "1914."

NEGRO HOLDUPS GET $1,145 IN STOCKING

Knock Down Woman and Rob Her Private Bank on Grand Concourse.

GARAGE IS PLUNDERED

Brooklyn Trolley Conductor Is Robbed and Watchman in Manhattan Wounded.

Mrs. Catherine Duffy, 62, of 404 East 151st street, The Bronx, on her way to the Grand Concourse last night from the home of relatives in Sheridan avenue whom she had been visiting, was attacked and robbed by two negroes at 16th street and Carroll place. They stole $700 in Liberty bonds, $445 in cash and a deed which she carried in her stocking.

Patrolman Cornish and a crowd of citizens heard her cries, but the negroes got away. Mrs. Duffy was taken to the Bronx Maternity Hospital near by and later to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Reed, 1064 Sheridan avenue, where she had spent the day. Her injuries are not dangerous. Carroll place at the point where the attack took place is flanked by vacant lots and it was dark.

Martin Stern, a silk salesman, of 526 West 11th street, reported to the West 100th street station last night that yesterday afternoon while his wife, baby and a maid were out for a walk four men entered his apartment, overpowered him and tied him to a bed, taking a stick pin with sixteen diamonds, a diamond ring and $60 in cash. Neither the elevator operator nor the doorman of the apartment house saw the four men enter or leave, according to the police. Mr. Stern declined to discuss the robbery last night, saying that the police were investigating.

Boys Held for Motor Theft.

Three boys alleged to have stolen the automobile of Frederick J. Kleet, captain of the police reserves of the West Forty-seventh street station, were arrested at Eleventh avenue and Fifth street.

The car had been left in West Forty-sixth street and the boys were seen in it about an hour after the theft. They were William Henry, 16, 791 Eleventh avenue; George Hugel, 419 West Fifty-sixth street, and George Muller, 19, 419 West Fifty-sixth street. They said some other boys had presented the automobile to them.

When Joseph Cecile, night manager of Jack Lee's garage, 241 West 107th street, returned to the garage early yesterday after driving a customer to his home there was no response to the customary signal for employees to open the door and admit the car. Cecile finally went to a side door and opened it. As he did so a man inside pointed a revolver at his head and ordered him to come in "and be quick about it." Cecile threw up his hands, and when he was inside two confederates of the gunman advanced toward him.

The man with the revolver struck him on the head and against the ribs with the butt of the weapon, and he was forced into the basement, where he found two of his employees, William Ratz and Edward France, both bound and gagged. Cecile likewise was overpowered, and the bandits then went through the pockets of the three, taking $84 from Cecile, $23 from France and $11 from Ratz. They left Cecile and his employees in the cellar and escaped in the touring car which Cecile had left outside the garage.

Cecile finally succeeded in liberating himself and untied his employees. It was found that the bandits had unlocked an inner compartment of the garage safe and taken $150 in cash.

Stolen Motor Is Abandoned.

The automobile, the property of E. H. Dobbs, a broker, of 601 West 110th street, in which Cecile had taken the broker to his home, was found abandoned in Riverside Drive near 116th street. It had not been damaged. Cecile said he thought he recognized two of the holdup men as former employees of the garage, and he thinks the key with which the safe box was opened was made from a lock impression taken some time ago.

Two men who held up Benjamin Joseph, clerk in a United Cigar store at 237 East Fifty-seventh street, yesterday escaped after a policeman had chased them for two miles through several streets in the vicinity of Queensboro Bridge. The bandits forced Joseph to open the safe and stole the day's receipts. They overlooked $15 in a cash register.

Raymond Ladda, conductor on a Brooklyn crosstown trolley car, was held up at Dyckman and Richards streets and robbed of $25 by two bandits who boarded his car and poked revolvers in his face, he said.

Nicolo Raspanto, 35, a watchman, was shot in a mysterious manner last night when in front of a building at Third avenue and Forty-third street. There recently had been a fire in the building occupying the corner and Raspanto was on guard duty there. He said he was bending over a stove on the edge of the sidewalk in front of the place when a shot was fired at him from ambush. The bullet struck between two fingers of his right hand and caused only a slight injury.

8 NOW HELD IN THEFT OF $100,000 WHISKY

Man Taken in Louisville Believed Leader of Ring.

LOUISVILLE, March 12.—In H. A. Collins, arrested to-day at his home near here, charged with being one of the twenty masked bandits who Friday night overpowered twelve men and stole $100,000 worth of whisky from the D. L. Moore distillery. Federal agents assert they have the leader of a huge liquor ring. The arrest of Collins and Henry McCutcheon, his negro servant, brought the total number of suspects in the case apprehended to eight.

Federal agents charge the robbery was planned and supervised by Collins and that Louisville is headquarters for the alleged running bellied responsible for five robberies which since last September have netted whisky worth more than $1,000,000.

Electric Trucks
Twelve Hundred Used by One Organization

The American Railway Express Company, to meet its transportation requirements throughout the country, is now using more than 1200 Electric Trucks. Showing the satisfactory character of the service, 105 new electrics have just been ordered. Of this additional number, 20 are to be added in the Metropolitan District to an existing fleet of 346 vehicles

Electric vehicles operate at lower cost than any other type. They possess an almost unlimited life—some in active service today are more than twenty years old—are easy to control, and are safe and dependable

Without obligation of any kind, we shall be glad to prepare delivery plans and routes, or to arrange for a demonstration of any type of vehicle large or small
